

FAMILY CRISIS INTERVENTION UNIT

FREE CRISIS SUPPORT FOR YOUTH AGES 10-17

If your family is facing conflict, school challenges, or a crisis at home, you're not alone. The Family Crisis Intervention Unit (FCIU) provides free crisis support for Monmouth County youth ages 10-17 and their families. We help calm difficult situations, prevent court involvement, and guide families toward a healthier, more stable future.

Our team works with you to address challenges like arguments between parents and children, missing school, running away from home, safety concerns, and other behavior or school-related problems. We focus on building stronger relationships, supporting school success, and connecting your family with resources that truly make a difference.

We meet families where they are — at home, in our office, or another safe location — and create a plan that works for your unique situation. We listen without judgment, focus on practical solutions, and help you take the next steps toward peace and stability.

Program Benefits:

- Immediate help — Crisis response in person or by phone, with after-hours support
- Support that comes to you — in-home or office visits based on your needs
- Hands-on assistance with case management and resource connections
- Focused in-home therapy (up to 16 weeks) when eligible through the Parent-Child Conflict Resolution Program (WRAP)

Our goal is to help families work through challenges, strengthen relationships, and create a path toward a healthier future. Need immediate help? Call (732) 996-7654.
